Starting in October as part of National Cybersecurity Awareness Month, Duke staff, faculty and students can report suspicious emails with one click of a button.

The new “Report Phish to Duke” button is in all Outlook email clients (Windows, Mac, Web, Android and iPhone). Duke’s information security offices are encouraging users to use the button instead of emailing security@duke.edu to report suspicious emails.

The button is part of the Proofpoint service already in use at Duke for protecting accounts against malicious links and attachments in emails.

More information about using the button is available online in the Duke KnowledgeBase: KB0031840