Box settings reminder [1]

March 13, 2019

After a recent news report [2] about potential data leakage from Box, Duke’s IT Security Office is reminding users to consider the types of data involved when using shared links in Box.

Duke’s Box service is not among the organizations impacted by the recent findings [2], but Duke Box users should remember to only use the "People with the link" setting for data that is truly public - that is, data anyone should be able to see. Most shared links should use "People with this link" or "People in your company" permissions instead. If users have shared sensitive data using public permissions in the past, those links should be removed or changed to a more restrictive permission.

Source URL: https://security.duke.edu/news-alerts/box-settings-reminder

Links
[1] https://security.duke.edu/news-alerts/box-settings-reminder